HIST 1700/ Astronomy 1700
Professor Mary Beth Norton and Professor Steven Squyres
Fall 2015, Mon and Wed, 10:10 to 11:00 am, plus sections Thursday, Friday

From ancient Stone Age peoples to the Mars rovers, from Christopher Columbus to the Apollo astronauts, humans have for centuries explored the far reaches of our planet, and now we are venturing into the solar system and beyond.

The professors believe that "nothing else like this course has ever been offered in the U.S. except here at Cornell in the previous years." It is offered under the auspices of the University Courses program.
