In this course we will explore the ways in which intellectual inquiry enriches the practice of martial arts, and the ways in which martial arts practice enriches such fields as history, anthropology, literature and film studies, and medical science. We will meet with scholar-martial artists and read and discuss select scholarly works. Students will also conduct and share their own participant-observer research on martial arts school histories, cultures, and social dynamics.